WE NOMINATE

The 26 members of one of Princeton's most appreciated, longest working and least publicized organizations, the Princeton Hospital Volunteers, who this week—and any week throughout the year—will devote a minimum of 35 hours to helping provide the amenities of life for hospitalized members of the community. Currently rounding out their first decade of service to all of Princeton, the Volunteers by translating the desire-to-help into continuing effective action have lent a world of local emphasis to the oft-quoted slogan, "Never underestimate the power of a woman."

In the pre-war long ago—February, 1939—the Hospital Trustees asked one of their associates, Margaret C. Wallace, to investigate the possibilities of evolving a volunteer service capable of shouldering such all-important details as receiving Hospital visitors, handling patients' mail and doing the countless odd jobs that make Hospital life that much more pleasant. Mrs. Wallace turned to the Princeton Service League, then headed by Helen Q. Griffin, present Volunteer chairman, and within weeks the Volunteers were a going concern, a unit which has contributed more than 16,000 woman-hours over the course of the past nine years.

Hospital authorities look upon the Volunteers as "indispensable" and rightfully wonder "how we ever struggled along without them," for everything the Volunteers do "would have to be done and we just couldn't afford to add to our full-time staff." Volunteers, working regularly assigned morning and afternoon shifts, become accustomed to the commonplace and to the unexpected. A charter member recalls wrestling for hours with legal phraseology, as one patient persisted in carrying on business correspondence from his hospital bed, while several remember piloting the elevator to the maternity floor "just in time."

Listed on the Volunteers' duty-rosters, that are maintained week-in and week-out with the exception of Sundays and three holidays a year, are the following: Alberta Bauer, Margaret C. Burt, Marjory D. Colpitts, Alice D. Cook, Anne K. Cowles, Harriet M. Craig, Hope P. Durrie, Adra A. Fairman, Martha L. Franklin, Mary W. Frothingham, Elizabeth H. Gibson, Mrs. Griffin, Faith S. Hackl, Elizabeth L. Harlow, Nancy C. Knox, Frances B. Nichol, Justine Norris, Jane Ousley, Ruth M. Palmer, Mary Jane H. Paynter, Jeanne Shannon, Rachel T. Thom, Mrs. Wallace, Jane White, Cynthia Wise, Dorothy Young.

For doing for others what others are unable to do for themselves; for demonstrating to one and all, including the lowly male, that there are women behind all great things; for bolstering the Hospital at a time it needs the support of all those for whom it exists; these 26 Volunteers are TOWN TOPICS' nominees for

Topics of the Town

Buss-Bestower Billed. If hundreds of Princetonians were sorry that Harold Stassen would be confined to Alexander Hall, how many would care what seating capacity was assigned to "Kissin' Jim" Folsom, Alabama's woman-wooing governor? The comparison would be evident on or before May 10, when the latter will speak on the University campus under Whig-Clio auspices.

Aid by Airmail. From Senator H. Alexander Smith, member of the powerful Committee on Foreign Relations, came direct word this week of the part numerous Princetonians can play in the vital election in Italy on April 18. Airmail letters to those who will cast the ballots that will play a large share in determining the world's future course will arrive at the crucial time.

In a letter to TOWN TOPICS, Senator Smith declared: "Information which has come to me indicates that anything of this nature which American citizens of Italian extraction can do could help materially in what is expected to be a close election. The strongest argument against communism lies in the true facts about the economic, social and political opportunities and the freedoms which it is the privilege of every American citizen to enjoy. Any personal illustrations which the Italian-Americans could include, showing exactly how they have been able to improve their personal situations under our democratic system would of course be most striking."

Funds Are Needed for YOUR Safety!

Dr. E. Newton Harvey (left), of Princeton receiving $57,513.75 check from George E. Stringfellow, vice-chairman of the Cancer Control Society, to further research on cells and cell growth here.

Money is vital for Education, Service and Research to Benefit You and Your Loved Ones. Sixty percent of the County's goal of $40,000 will be used locally. Twenty-five percent is allocated to national research and the remaining 15 percent to educate the public how to help control cancer.

It's New to Us

"Art's Brand" Overseas Packages. Anything which facilitates the sending of ever-needed food packages overseas is a worthwhile project, and this new service available at Bamman's certainly comes under that heading. Ordering a package when you're buying groceries is simpler even than sending in a mail request, and that is literally all there is to it.

The "Art's Brand" refers to the contents of the parcels, mainly canned meats, with butter, lard and powdered milk also available. The various ready-prepared meats are of a particularly high quality (Bamman's will attest to that), and the corned beef hash is the only product of that kind to have won a Seal of Merit from the American Culinary Federation. By spending from $8.90 to $14.20, you can be sure that overseas recipients will welcome from 11 to 14½ pounds not only of rationed food, but of especially delicious and protein-filled edibles.

The service is on a par with the meats. Delivery to England takes 14 days, two or three weeks will reach the Continent; and a slip signed by the addressee will prove unquestionably that the fully insured package arrived. The unusually fast delivery is the result of some efficient planning: permanently reserved space for "Art's Brand" parcels for all sailings of the Queens, both Elizabeth and Mary.

"Train-Etts." Lest you get the impression that these have something to do with babies, we hasten to make clear that they are for another kind of training confined pretty much to the present season: that of climbing vines, flowers and vegetables.

The Train-Ett is a ready-made net trellis that eliminates the use of wire, which gets hot in the sun and burns the delicate tendrils—or string—which is tedious to tie and frequently rots after you struggle through the operation. The weatherized twine, strong and enduring enough to last for several seasons, makes an inconspicuous greenish background for the growing things which it supports.

You can put the Train-Ett to immediate use, either by fastening it against a wall, or attaching it to stakes

How much less can my family get along on without real inconvenience?

Face the Facts.

If you are insured for less than that minimum amount it is time to do something about it.

Inconvenience is one thing—actual hardship for your wife and children can mean tragedy.

of the new State constitution approved by last Fall's referendum, Princeton's two boards of education announced simultaneously this week that racial segregation in the town's elementary schools will end in June. The decision, forecast first in TOWN TOPICS (Feb. 15-21), heralded a major change in the educational policies of a primarily academic community.

Beginning in September, all Township pupils will enroll in that municipality's school, where play space in the basement and the manual training room will be converted into temporary classrooms to accommodate 90 new pupils. "Educating these pupils in its own system," said the board, "will cost the Township less and, at the same time, will make for better integration of the student population." The board could—and did—also point to the fact that it made immediate expansion more essential than ever.

News of the Theatres

The Playhouse

April Showers (Fri., Sat.) selects San Francisco in 1912 for its backstage vaudeville story and accompanying music. Jack Carson and Ann Southern in an ordinary piece.

Sitting Pretty (Sun. thru Wed.) records what takes place when suburbanites Robert Young & wife (Maureen O'Hara) hire a most unusual baby sitter in the person of caustic Clifton Webb. A dozen farcical developments provide a fair supply of humor.

Scudda-Hoo! Scudda-Hay! (Thurs., Fri., Sat.), which may be Greek to you but is "Giddap!" to a mule, spins an easy-going, rural-set yarn in which romance, pathos and success-against-great-odds all play a part. Lon McCallister, June Haver, Walter Brennan help a team of mules prove they're man's best friend.

The Garden

Bambi (Fri., Sat.) is Walt Disney's colorful and bucolic 1942 production about a number of appealing animals, chief among them a faun. Fine for the youngsters.

Catherine the Great (Mon., Tues., Wed.) stars Doug Fairbanks, Jr., and Elizabeth Bergner in a costume-piece dealing with court romance and intrigue in the Russia of by-gone days. Slow but well-acted.

T-Men (Thurs., Fri., Sat.) sets Treasury agents against gangsters operating a dope-smuggling and counterfeit ring. Typical melodrama, starring Dennis O'Keefe, told in semi-documentary style.

The Borough will enroll all its pupils from kindergarten through grade five at the Nassau Street School and all those in grades six, seven and eight in the Witherspoon School on Quarry Street. Kindergartens may possibly be maintained in both locations but use of the Witherspoon School by both municipalities for virtually all Negro children in Princeton will henceforth cease. Faculties, too, will be integrated.

Enumerating advantages for this procedure "far in excess of those provided by any other plan," the Borough board foresaw "an opportunity to improve what is already considered a most excellent school program." Wise, too, to the ways of mankind, it pointed out that "it could not possibly produce a plan which would meet with the unanimous approval of all the citizens of Princeton." But it was worth recalling that the new constitution, motivating factor in the decision, was passed in Princeton last Fall by the overwhelming margin of 8 to 1.
